

Alumni: Miles Kent

Miles Kent studied with the music department at Vision West Nottinghamshire College between 2014 and 2016 where he successfully completed a Level 3 Extended Diploma in Music Technology.

Miles is the former front man and songwriter of the local band Catch Fire who were signed to the independent punk and hardcore label, Rude Records. Catch Fire released a number of EPs and a feature length album that boasts over two million streams on Spotify. Even though the band are currently not writing and recording, they still draw an impressive number of worldwide monthly listeners on Spotify. Catch Fire's videos and musical works can be heard and seen across all industry-leading streaming platforms.

Miles is currently the primary songwriter and touring guitarist for Pure Noise Records artist, Lizzy Farrall. When he's not touring the UK and Europe, Miles runs his own studio producing music for various electronic, metal and pop artists.

Miles's portfolio of work clearly demonstrates the freelance nature of the music industry. His passion, desire and hard work shows that with the right attitude you can directly progress into the industry straight from a Level 3 course.
