

USING MATHS IN...

HOSPITALITY AND CATERING

WHAT YOU'LL NEED TO KNOW...

- So you can calculate customer bills and handle cash accurately.
- To be able to work to a time schedule for customer reservations and the order of service for functions.
- You need quick arithmetic when working on a bar, so that you can accurately charge customers and provide a quick service.

Without these skills you could be limiting your opportunity to progress in your career.

Catering and kitchen assistants can earn around £17,207 each year.

Restaurant and catering managers can earn up to £22,255 per year.

A starting salary for a chef is around £18,808, rising with experience.

*these figures are a national guide only

So don't miss out on your GCSE and functional skills maths classes identified on your timetable.

USING ENGLISH IN...

HOSPITALITY AND CATERING

WHAT YOU'LL NEED TO KNOW...

- In order to take customer orders your communication and listening skills need to be professional with the correct use of language to communicate with your kitchen team and customers.
- You need to communicate with customers over the telephone, by email and social media so you need to speak and write in a professional manner, with correct use of spelling and grammar.
- To be able to understand culinary terms on menus and understand the products you are serving.

Without these skills you could be limiting your opportunity to progress in your career.

Catering and kitchen assistants can earn around £17,207 each year.

Restaurant and catering managers can earn up to £22,255 per year.

A starting salary for a chef is around £18,808, rising with experience.

*these figures are a national guide only

So don't miss out on your GCSE and functional skills English classes identified on your timetable.