

USING MATHS IN...

PUBLIC SERVICES

WHAT YOU'LL NEED TO KNOW...

- Navigation calculations need to be accurate, so you can calculate routes and time estimation.
- You need to be clear interpreting co-ordinates of grid references to locate position, calculating angles when setting compass bearings. Navigation is key to all services such as search and rescue and in particular the military as it is one of the core basic training areas.
- Accuracy with statistical analysis and analysis of demographics in relation to setting government policy. Interpreting data/analysis of current issues such as crime figures, voting trends, government spending.
- Fitness testing accuracy for administering and recording test results, data analysis of test results.
- Maths is used in the Navy in relation to the complexities of oceanography.

Without these skills you could be limiting your opportunity to progress in your career.

Police community support officers earn in the region of £28,847 a year. Senior officers in fire, ambulance or prison and related services can earn up to £39,093 a year.

Officers in the armed forces salaries vary greatly depending on the rank appointed to

*these figures are a national guide only

So don't miss out on your GCSE and functional skills maths classes identified on your timetable.

USING ENGLISH IN...

PUBLIC SERVICES

WHAT YOU'LL NEED TO KNOW...

- To be effective at note-taking and information collection and recording evidence and recording key details from briefings.
- Being clear with report writing of evidence reports and witness statements.
- So you can deliver effective presentations. Examples include team briefing presentations, military strategy briefings and public meetings.

Without these skills you could be limiting your opportunity to progress in your career.

Police community support officers earn in the region of £28,847 a year. Senior officers in fire, ambulance or prison and related services can earn up to £39,093 a year.

Officers in the armed forces salaries vary greatly depending on the rank appointed to

*these figures are a national guide only

So don't miss out on your GCSE and functional skills English classes identified on your timetable.